What is Cuckooing?

Cuckooing is when criminals take over the home of a vulnerable person and use it for criminal purposes such as dealing drugs.

The term comes from the behaviour of cuckoo birds who take over the nests of other birds.

A criminal will often befriend a vulnerable person in order to exploit them and use their property. The person is usually intimidated and too scared to report it to anyone.

2

Who are the victims?

Victims are vulnerable individuals, often drug users, but can include people who are;

- Older
- Living with mental or physical health conditions
- Living with learning disability
- Involved in prostitution
- Single parents
- Experiencing poverty
- Isolated
- Living with drug or alcohol addiction

3

Controlling the victim

The criminals use the property to provide a discreet location out of sight of police from which to conduct their activity.

They will use a range of tactics to control the victim. This could be pacifying victims using drugs. Once the 'high' wears off the victims want the criminals to leave, leading to threats or violence being used.

4

Spotting the Signs

- High number of vehicles stopping at the property for a short time.
- Increased anti-social behaviour around the property
- Open drug dealing near the property
- Not seeing the resident of the property as often
- People coming and going at various times day and night.

It is also important to involve the housing provider if this is a registered housing provider or the landlord if it is a privately rented property.
